

What is Personal Information?

Personal information is information about you that should never share with strangers on the internet.

People you may not know might ask for your personal information and it is your right to keep personal information private and safe. Even though some information may not be considered personal information, you still have a right to not share it with strangers if you do not want to.

Cut out each example and help your child decide whether it is an example of personal information or not. As you paste the example under the correct column, chat with your child about the importance of keeping this information safe. Write at least one more example under each column.
